

Private Client Solicitor

This exciting new role offers candidates an opportunity to develop their legal skills in a leading North West law firm which is ranked in the top tiers of the legal directories.

The role, based in the English Lake District, offers the successful candidate the opportunity to begin or develop their career in a firm which acts for many high net worth and ultra high net worth individuals, business owners, investors and successful professionals. In particular, we act for clients involved in the region's rural, hospitality and leisure, entrepreneurial, and professional services sectors. There is particular emphasis on tax and succession planning for many of our clients.

Temple Heelis' specialist Private Client department undertakes a range of varied and complex work including Wills, Trusts, Lasting Powers of Attorney and Probate. The 8-strong department includes three Partners (who are all ranked as leading individuals in Chambers/High Net Worth Guide and Legal 500). The department, also ranked in the directories, is based in our Kendal office and is forward-thinking, innovative and energetic.

The firm itself can trace its history back to 1822 and one former partner of the firm, William Heelis, married Beatrix Potter. Throughout its 200 year history, the firm has built up and maintained a loyal client base across the South Lakes region while also regularly attracting new clients who are based not only in the region but also across the UK and internationally. The firm prides itself on service to clients which is delivered by a collegiate approach involving all team members.

This role would suit someone who would like a move to the area, with a relocation package available.

The role will involve:

- Working with solicitors and other colleagues in the Private Client department and across the firm;
- Drafting legal documents;
- Developing relationships with new clients and other professional contacts;
- Maintaining professional expertise and developing further qualifications such as STEP.

Salary: £30,000.00 – £39,000.00 per annum depending on qualification and experience.
